Introduction

We will build a community from across colleges and companies. Our community members will tie up with companies together, learning and starts freelancing, find internships, make life-long friendships, and met mentors all on our platform. The future is being built here.

Background

Most of college education is full of confusions and lots of queries. Lack of exposure and access to opportunities hampers professional growth in the early days of their career.

People from top universities have access to great mentors, a powerful alumni network, smart peers, and top-notch opportunities which gives them a head start. 90% of the people don't experience this. We're here to bridge that gap.

Objective

Objectives of this idea is to :

1. Find exciting people and internships:

Get hired based on your skills and projects. There are a bunch of exciting projects.

2. Network with smart people:

Make friends and meet passionate builders. Your co-founder for your next unicorn startup is just a DM away.

3. Upskill with live events:

Learn through hackathons, speaker sessions, and insightful discussions. Improve by 1% everyday.

4. Startup enthusiasts:

If you're looking for a co-founder, hire talent, want feedback on your startup idea, want to get your first few users, or want to network with other hustlers- this is the place to be

Future Scope

A common platform is needed to provide students from different fields of engineering a proper guidance from seniors of different colleges having experience in different activities and technology.

Also ,students from different colleges can connect and exchange idea and work together on some idea or project for upgrading their skills.
